

March 14, 2006

Congressman Todd Akin Receives Fifth Consecutive "Taxpayers' Friend Award"

The National Taxpayer's Union (NTU) has released its annual report on U.S. Representatives and Senators showing that Congressman Todd Akin (R-MO) is a consistent vote for a lower burden on U.S. taxpayers. The NTU awarded Congressman Todd Akin with a fifth consecutive "Taxpayers Friend Award" for being a "highest performer" in Congress when it comes to fighting against increased taxes on Americans.

"I am honored to receive this award, which really is a tribute to the people of the Second Congressional District and their commitment to restraining federal spending. I also want to commend the National Taxpayers Union for its work in monitoring the fiscal actions of Congress," said Akin.

"I am honored to receive this award, which really is a tribute to the people of the Second Congressional District and their commitment to restraining federal spending. I also want to commend the National Taxpayers Union for its work in monitoring the fiscal actions of Congress," said Akin.

The 2005 rating, along with a searchable database, is available online at www.ntu.org .